Question 1:

Imagine you are sitting alone in a train station and a woman with a great body walks in and stands in a nearby line. What is your reaction to the woman? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question	400
I openly stare at her and drool forms on my lower lip.	4%
I'm drawn to look at her, and I sneak a peek, or glance at her from the corner of my eye.	75.8%
It is impossible not to be aware that she is there, but I try to stop myself from looking.	18%
Nothing happens; it doesn't affect me.	2.3%
Total	100%

Question 2:

Many men have a mental set of sensual images that rise up or can be conjured up in their minds. Does this apply to you? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered q	uestion	400
Yes, and these images are regularly changing – for example, the great body from the previous question could be recalled hours or days later.		62.3%
Yes, but they are mostly images from years gone by.		24.5%
No, I don't have a mental set of sensual images.		13.3%
Total		100%

Question 3:

Think about what these two negative experiences would be like: to feel alone and unloved in the world OR to feel inadequate and disrespected by everyone. If you were forced to choose one, which would you prefer? Would you rather feel...? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question	400
Alone and Unloved	73.8%
Inadequate and Disrespected	26.3%

Question 4:

Even though the situation may not be directly applicable to you, imagine that you have kids and they have done some minor damage to the kitchen wall, and it is obvious to both you and your wife/significant other that it needs to be fixed, and that it will be your job to do it. Some time later, your wife/significant other pointedly reminds you that it still needs to be fixed. What goes through your mind? {Choose All Correct Answers}

Base = Respondents who answered que	stion 400
Oh, sweetie. I'll turn off the football game right now and do it.	4.5%
I feel bad about not having done it sooner, and appreciate the reminder.	28%
I feel bad about not having done it sooner, but I resent her nagging me.	22.5%
She thinks I'm a second-rate husband for not doing this.	2.3%
I've failed. She shouldn't have to be asking me. I let her down.	8%
It needs to be done, but it's just not as much of a priority for me. It'll get done eventually.	48.5%
I feel like she's accusing me of being lazy or not caring about the family.	6.8%
She doesn't trust that I know what I'm doing and that I'll get to it when I can.	6.8%

I do so much for this family!
I can't believe she's mad at me for not getting to this one thing just yet.

Note: Percentages total more than 100%, because respondents could choose more than one answer. As noted in the book, after accounting for those who chose multiple answers, 37% of the men perceived the wife's reminder as nagging or as an accusation of laziness or mistrust.

Question 5:

Original question removed (see note)

Note: The original question about whether the men were insecure or felt like imposters provided a confusing spread of responses, and several men indicated that the use of the word 'imposter' in the question put them on the defensive. The survey consultant indicated that this may have skewed the results. We re-worded the question on the follow-up survey. The results can be seen in the 'Follow-up survey' section below.

Question 6:

In your work life, do you have thoughts like 'I'm not appreciated around here'? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answere	d question	400
Yes, frequently		14.8%
Yes, sometimes		46.8%
No, I rarely have thoughts like that		26%
No, I generally feel appreciated		12.5%

Question 7:

In your home life, do you have thoughts like 'I'm not appreciated around here'? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question	400
Yes, frequently	8%
Yes, sometimes	35.3%
No, I rarely have thoughts like that	27.5%
No, I generally feel appreciated	29.3%

Question 8:

Imagine that your wife/significant other has complained that you have been working too much. Select all the thoughts that would likely go through your mind (not just those that are true statements). {Choose All Correct Answers}

Base = Respondents who answered question	400
If I don't work this hard, I feel like my job might be at risk, and I do have to provide for my family.	39.5%
I probably could work a lot less if I chose to stand up to my boss.	3.5%
There is no way to support our family lifestyle without working this hard – I guess I could find a job that worked fewer hours, but it wouldn't pay enough.	36.5%
I've got to work a lot to get ahead, and I want to get ahead.	34.5%
I need to work this much in order to stay on top of my job, or else I might let the organization down.	34%
Does she think I like working this much? I don't want to be away from her and the kids!	40.3%
I do want to be working this much – I enjoy work.	24.3%
I do want to be working this much because I don't enjoy being at home.	5%
Note: Percentages total more than 100%, because respondents could choose more than one answer. As noted in the book, after accounting for those who chose multiple answers, 82% of the men chose answers 1, 3, 5 and/or 6 what I would characterize as demonstrating an 'unselfish' motivation for working too much.

Question 9:

Under what circumstances do you think about your responsibility to provide for your family? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question	400
Only when I'm unemployed or facing financial challenges	6.3%

It's occasionally in the back of my mind	20.3%
It's often in the back of my mind	21%
It's something I'm conscious of most of the time	49.3%
Never	3.3%
Total	100%

Question 10:

Suppose your wife/significant other earned enough to support your family's lifestyle. Would you still feel a compulsion to provide for your family? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question	387
Yes	78.3%
No	21.7%

Question 11:

Regardless of whether you are able to plan romantic events, or whether your wife/significant other appreciates it, do you, yourself, desire romance? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answe	red question	400
Yes, very much.		46%
Yes, somewhat.		38.5%
I can take it or leave it.		14%
I don't care for it.	1	1.5%

Question 12:

Men sometimes have different notions of what is romantic. If you take sex out of the equation, which of the following do you find more romantic for yourself? (Choose one answer.)

Base = Respondents who answered question	400
The traditional notion of a romantic event- for example, a candlelight dinner, a cozy snuggle by the fire, or watching a sunset on the beach.	59%

The idea of getting out and doing things with my wife/ significant other and playing together-for example, hiking together, golfing together, or driving around and exploring.	39%
Neither seems romantic to me.	2%

Question 13:

Suppose you had to plan an anniversary event for your wife/significant other. Do you know how to put together a romantic event that you know your partner would enjoy? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question	400
Yes, I can do it with style	54.3%
Yes, but I'm not sure that I would do a very good job	34.3%
No, she may not like what I did	7.8%
No, I really don't have a clue	3.8%

Question 14:

Is this statement true or false? 'I want my wife/significant other to look good and feel energetic. It is not as important that she look just like she did the day we met. It is more important that she make the effort to take care of herself for me now.' {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question		400
Yes		83%
No		17%

Question 15:

Even the best relationships sometimes have conflicts on day-to-day issues. In the middle of a conflict with my wife/significant other, I am more likely to be feeling... {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question		400
That my wife/significant other doesn't respect me right now.		81.5%
That my wife/significant other doesn't love me right now.		18.5%

Question 16:

When (or if) your wife notices when you do something and sincerely thanks you for it, choose the impact it has on you, in terms of how happy or filled up it makes you. For example, "Thank you for mowing the lawn even though it was hot outside." {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question		400
It deeply pleases me-it's a small thing that has a relatively big impact		72%
It feels nice, but not much impact		26%
It doesn't do much for me		2%

Question 17:

Imagine your wife/significant other is overweight, wears baggy sweats when you are home, and only does her hair and makeup to go out. She hates being overweight, but nothing much changes and lately you've seen her eating more sweets. What goes through your mind? {Choose All Correct Answers}

Base = Respondents who answere	ed question	400
It doesn't bother me at all.		12.3%
I know it shouldn't bother me, but it does.		24.5%
I wish I could tell her how I feel, but I can't because it would hurt her feelings.		25%
I want her to make an effort to take care of herself – not just for herself, but also for me.		46.5%
If she really cared about me and what would please me, she would make more of an effort.		11.5%
She should know that taking care of herself is important to me – I shouldn't have to tell her.		22%
I'm disappointed that she doesn't seem to "get" that this is important to me, but I understand that it is hard for her, too.		21.8%

This question doesn't apply to me, because my wife/ significant other already looks great all the time, and I can't imagine her otherwise.

Note: Percentages total more than 100%, because respondents could choose more than one answer. After eliminating the answers of men who said this question did not apply to them, and after accounting for multiple answers, 70% of the remaining men chose answers 2, 3, 5, 6 and/or 7 – indicating that they would be emotionally bothered by this hypothetical situation.

Question 18:

Imagine your wife/significant other is overweight and really wants to make an effort to get in shape for you. But her slate is already full; she has no time during the day, and in the evening she has to watch the kids or drive them to their activities. How much effort, financial expense, or additional responsibility would you be willing to take on so she can do what's necessary to get in shape? (Choose one answer.)

Base = Respondents who answered	question	400
I'd do whatever it takes to help her and gladly make a significant effort.		66%
I'd be willing to make a reasonable effort.		31%
I would lend a hand, but I'd privately be annoyed.		2%
I'd prefer not to do much; it's really her responsibility.	1	1%
Total		100%

Question 19:

Imagine that you and your wife/significant other are out with a mixed group of friends and you are explaining an issue that you know well. Now imagine that your wife/significant other vocally disagrees with you at several points and keeps pushing, despite your efforts to move on. How does that make you feel? {Choose All Correct Answers}

Base = Respondents who answered question		400
I feel disrespected.		39.3%
I'm embarrassed about the way she is behaving.		63.5%

I want my wife/significant other to make me look good, but at the moment I think the other men feel sorry for me.

I not only feel disrespected,
but I actually feel somewhat unloved by her.

14.3%

Note: Percentages total more than 100%, because respondents could choose more than one answer.

Question 20:

Imagine that your wife was an interested and motivated sexual partner, and you therefore had an active love life. How would having sex with her as often as you wanted affect your emotional state? (Choose one answer.)

Base = Respondents who answered question		400
It would have little or no effect-sex seems unrelated to my emotions or how I feel about the rest of my life.		23%
It would have a positive effect- it would give me a greater sense of well-being and satisfaction with life.		77%

Question 21:

Imagine that your wife offers all the sex that you want but does it reluctantly or simply to accommodate your sexual needs. Will you be sexually satisfied? (Choose one answer.)

Base = Respondents who answered question 400		400
Yes 26		26%
No		74%

Question 22:

With regard to sex, for some men it is sufficient to be sexually gratified whenever they want. For other men it is also important to feel wanted and desired by their wife. How important is it to you to also feel sexually wanted and desired by your wife? (Choose one answer.)

Base = Respondents who answered question		400
Very important		66%

Somewhat important		31%
Not very important as long as I get enough sex	The second second	2%
Irrelevant, as long as I get enough sex	1	1%

Question 23:

I am not always as confident as I look.

Base = Respondents who answered question		602
I feel like this regularly/ sometimes		76%
I rarely or never feel like this		24%

Follow-Up Survey

Author Note: The follow-up survey followed-up on one unclear question from the first professional survey. To create the same survey environment, the previous survey questions were asked alongside the new one, which was also designed with the guidance of Chuck Cowan of Analytic Focus. The survey was conducted by Multnomah Publishers and delivered a sample of primarily churchgoing men, who were (as with the previous survey) heterosexual, lived within the U.S., and were between the ages of 21 and 75.

Question 1:

Men who are taking risks and progressing in their careers will inevitably face many situations that are somewhat unfamiliar and challenging. Think back over several situations like that in your career. Which one of these feelings were you most likely to experience? {Choose One Answer}

Base = Respondents who answered question	323
I can handle it, no problem.	25.6%
I'm somewhat out of my depth here, and I hope it doesn't show.	60.2%
I feel a bit like an imposter; I'm not fully qualified to do this and I hope no-one finds out.	13.9%

Question 2:

Think about several instances when you've had a tiff with your wife/significant other and she wanted to talk about it. In a situation where you don't want to talk about it, please check ALL the reasons why. {Choose all correct answers.}

Base = Respondents who answered question	404
Because I'm not clear what I'm thinking and/or can't articulate it yet; I'm trying to sort out my feelings.	48%
Because talking about our argument right then won't lead to a solution.	57%
Because I need time to figure out a solution before I burden her with it.	41%
Because I'm mad at her and therefore don't want to talk to her.	31%
Because I don't want to say something in the heat of the moment that I'll regret later.	71%
Note: Because the men could choose more than one answer, percentages total more than 100 percent.

Question 3:

Suppose you are doing some minor project, and it's not something you discussed with your wife/significant other. She gets that "What were you thinking?" look on her face and clearly has a question about what you are doing. Choose the situation that happens most frequently. {Choose one answer}

Note: Taken from a second national survey of men, "How Men Think 2," 2005, which used the same methodology, survey designer and survey company as the 2003 survey.- Due to rounding, totals slightly exceed 100 percent.

Question 4:

Regarding the subjects in this survey, what is the one thing that you wish that your wife/significant other knew, but you feel you can't explain to her or tell her? (Please note your answers in the box below. Please be specific and include details).

Note: To read the men's verbatim answers to this question, Men's Advice to Women, from both the professional survey and the follow-up survey click here.

Author Note/Research Methodology

The professional survey was designed with the guidance of Chuck Cowan of Analytic Focus (www.analyticfocus.com), the former chief of survey design at the U.S. Census Bureau. The survey was conducted by Decision Analyst (www.decisionanalyst.com) and was designed to deliver a random, representative, national sample of 400 men (the sample size suggested by Chuck Cowan) who were heterosexual, lived within the U.S., and were between the ages of 21 and 75.
